HOW DID THE FUND PERFORM LAST YEAR AND WHAT AFFECTED ITS PERFORMANCE?

For the year ended May 31, 2024, the Fund's performance relative to the Russell Midcap Total Return Index was aided by an overweight position in the Industrials sector; underweights in the Real Estate and Communications sectors; and specific companies in the Consumer Discretionary, Health Care, Information Technology, and Consumer Staples sectors. Relative performance was hindered by the Fund's overweight positions in the Consumer Staples and Health Care sectors; underweights in the Financial and Energy Sectors; and specific companies in the Industrials and Financials sectors.

During the period, the strategy continued its high allocation to quality companies, as defined by the S&P Earnings and Dividend Quality Rankings. The Fund's allocation to the highest-quality companies — those rated A+, A and A- — averaged 48% of portfolio assets compared to 23% of the Russell Midcap Total Return Index. This significant overweight to quality detracted from the Fund's relative returns during the period, which we believe were driven by increased investor appetite for risk following the U.S. avoidance of a recession and easing concerns over inflation.
